Data Analyst

About Ninepoint

Ninepoint Partners is an independent, employee-owned Canadian investment firm committed to delivering innovative investment solutions. With more than $8 billion in assets under management and institutional contracts, and a dedicated team of over 100 professionals, Ninepoint is one of Canada's largest independent asset managers. As the firm grows and expands into new product categories, we continue to strengthen our team. Our head office is located on Bay Street in Toronto's Royal Bank Plaza, South Tower, and is supported by a nationwide client relationship team serving investment advisors and institutional investors across Canada.

At Ninepoint, we believe that in uncertain times, innovative investment solutions are essential to a well-diversified portfolio. As the industry consolidates, we are proud to stand at the forefront, where driven professionals build meaningful careers while offering differentiated strategies that help investors diversify and enhance their portfolios.

The Role

The Data Analyst role is a full-time, 4 day a week on-site position based in Toronto, ON. The individual in this role will help build and maintain Ninepoint's enterprise data foundation by collecting, transforming, and managing data from a variety of internal and external sources. Day-to-day responsibilities include developing and maintaining data pipelines, creating reliable datasets for reporting and analysis, and automating recurring reports and business processes using Python and the firm's data warehouse. The Data Analyst will partner closely with teams across the organization to understand business requirements, translate data into meaningful insights, and deliver reporting that supports operational efficiency and decision-making. The role also involves monitoring data quality, documenting processes and methodologies, identifying opportunities for process improvement, and contributing to the ongoing enhancement of the firm's data infrastructure, reporting capabilities, and analytics best practices.

What We Are Looking For

- 1 to 2 years of experience as a data analyst or in a similar role. (New graduates are also welcome to apply.)
- Excellent oral and written communication skills.
- Ability to turn ambiguous business needs into concise requirements with relevant use cases and acceptance criteria.
- A self-starter with an agile mindset to shifting priorities.
- Strong Excel and PowerPoint skills and the ability to present findings to non-technical audiences.
- Python skills for data analysis (for example, pandas and NumPy), scripting and automation.
- Strong SQL knowledge required (Postgres, PL/SQL).
- Comfortable working with large quantitative and statistical datasets.
- Relevant undergraduate degree (for example, computer science, mathematics, finance, economics, etc.).

What We Offer

At Ninepoint, we believe our people are our greatest competitive advantage. Whether you're early in your career or bringing years of specialized expertise, you'll have the opportunity to contribute meaningfully, continue growing professionally, and work alongside some of the industry's most talented investment professionals.

We Offer

- A competitive total rewards package, including comprehensive health and dental benefits, wellness programs, paid time off, and retirement savings support.
- The opportunity to make a visible impact within one of Canada's leading independent asset management firms, where ideas are valued and contributions are recognized.
- Work alongside experienced leaders and industry experts which will provide opportunities to learn, develop, and expand your expertise.
- Professional development and career growth opportunities, including mentorship, stretch assignments, and exposure to a wide range of business initiatives.
- A collaborative, high-performance culture that encourages innovation, accountability, and continuous improvement.
- A modern office in the heart of Toronto's Financial District, designed to support collaboration, connection, and productivity.
- A highly engaged team environment, with regular social events, firm-wide initiatives, and opportunities to build relationships across the organization.
- The stability of an established firm combined with the agility of an entrepreneurial organization allows employees to have meaningful influence on business outcomes.
- The chance to work with talented professionals who are passionate about investment excellence and delivering exceptional outcomes for clients.
