TRADING ETF SERIES

Exchange-traded series hold a basket of investments, like mutual funds, but trade on exchanges like stocks. Here are a few things to keep in mind when trading exchange-traded series:

Pricing

Exchange-traded series have two sets of prices: market price and net asset value (NAV).

Market price

- Exchange-traded series are bought and sold on exchanges at the market price. The market price can change throughout the trading day. Factors like supply, demand, and changes in the value of a Fund's investments can effect the market price.
- You can get price quotes any time during the trading day. Quotes have two parts: bid and ask.
- The bid is the highest price a buyer is willing to pay if you want to sell your exchange-traded units. The ask is the lowest price a seller is willing to accept if you want to buy exchange traded units. The difference between the two is called the "bid-ask spread".
- In general, a smaller bid-ask spread means the exchange-traded series is more liquid. That means you are more likely to get the price you expect.

Net asset value (NAV)

- Like mutual funds, exchange-traded series have a NAV. It is calculated after the close of each trading day and reflects the value of a Fund's investments at that point in time.
- NAV is used to calculate financial information for reporting purposes – like the returns shown in this document.

Orders

There are two main options for placing trades: market orders and limit orders. A market order lets you buy or sell exchange-traded units at the current market price. A limit order lets you set the price at which you are willing to buy or sell exchange-traded units.

Timing

In general, market prices of exchange-traded series can be more volatile around the start and end of the trading day. Consider using a limit order or placing a trade at another time during the trading day.

A WORD ABOUT TAX

How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live, the type of earnings (i.e., income or capital gains), and whether or not you hold the Fund in a registered plan such as a Registered Retirement Savings Plan or a Tax-Free Savings Account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your Fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.
